Minnesota Impact of Declining Revenues on Higher Education From 1991-2016

State Appropriations and Tuition

NOTES: Data adjusted for inflation using the Higher Education Cost Adjustment (HECA). Full-time equivalent (FTE) enrollment equates student credit hours to full-time, academic year students, but excludes medical students. Educational appropriations are a measure of state and local support available for public higher education operating expenses including ARRA funds, and exclude appropriations for independent institutions, financial aid for students attending independent institutions, research, hospitals, and medical education. Net tuition revenue is calculated by taking the gross amount of tuition and fees, less state and institutional financial aid, tuition waivers or discounts, and medical student tuition and fees. Net tuition revenue used for capital debt service is included in the net tuition revenue figures above.

Percent of Tuition	26.2	43.8	53.5

Minnesota's cost for education has remained relatively flat since 1991. However, the share of that cost has risen for students. In 1991, the state appropriated over 73% ($8,663) of the cost per FTE, but in 2016, the state only appropriated 46% of the cost (($6,605), an overall decline of almost 24%. During that same time, tuition has increased by over 146% ($3,083 in 1991 to $7,597 in 2016)
